PURPOSE OF SITE VISIT

This was a scheduled site visit of the HOPWA program provided by the contractor to observe contract compliance of program services and activities and to conduct a program and client file review. This site visit covered July 1, 2023 through December 31, 2023, and approximately 10% and/or up to ten (10) client files were randomly selected for review. The primary focus of the client file review was to determine if the files are clearly organized to easily determine client status, and if there is appropriate documentation to verify client eligibility, client assessment and housing plans, client follow-up, and supportive service referrals as necessary

I. Follow up on Prior Issues/Action Required

There are no prior issues to report.

Because the new Eccovia ClientTrack online case management system has not fully been configured to our HOPWA system yet, LAHD was

IV. Client File Review and Program Specifics

Contract compliance requires that specific documents of program eligibility, outcome verification and case notes be maintained in each file. It is also required that substantiating documentation be included in files to verify that services were provided. Only the files of clients served directly by APLA were reviewed. It is the lead agency's responsibility to monitor its subcontractors.

Of the 426 total Housing Specialist files reported in Eccovia for the review period, 10 were selected and reviewed.

Comments

3 of the 10 client files reviewed showed significant gaps in services and/or case notes. The contractor reported that these clients did have documented services provided during the gaps, but the information had not yet been transferred from the other database the agency uses into Eccovia ClientTrack.

TOTAL YTD						$ 784,104.86
% OF ANNUAL BUDGET $2,040,000.00						38%

VI. Findings and Concerns

A finding is considered a violation of the contract or HOPWA regulation. A concern is a material weakness, but not a violation. Written responses are required for both findings and concerns.

Findings: There are no findings to report for this review period.

Concerns: There are no concerns to report for this review period.

Action required: As discussed during the site visit, the Contractor will provide LAHD with their current Policies and Procedures as soon as revisions are complete. APLA will submit updated policies and procedures by June 30, 2024

VII. Additional Comments

The team from APLA provided feedback regarding their challenges using the new Eccovia ClientTrack online case management system, including the addition of bed night services to the Crisis Bed program.
